SLEEP IS PRICELESS.

But It Can Be Obtained by Simple Methods.

with a feeling of satisfaction at the prospect of a night's repose, do you wait the hour of bedtime with dread and shrinking?

Is it your unhappy lot to be awakened every night, just after you have dropped off to sleep, by an intense, uncontrollable litching or the rectum? Do you then endeavor to relieve the sensation by scratching so desperately that the skin becomes raw and lacerated, and you finally sink into the sleep of exhaustion? If so, you do not need to be told that you are afflicted with itching piles. You have probably tried every remedy you could hear of, with but temporary relief, if any, and have concluded there was nothing left for you but to drag out a miserable existence. As a drowning man grasps at a straw, so should you eagerly devour the words of W. O. Milbury. To Pearl street, Reading, Mass.

"I am pleased to state that I bought one fifty-cent box of Pyramid Pile Cure at the drug store, and used about one half of it, and it not only cured me of itching piles, but also of constipation, a trouble of about fifteen years' standing. I have tried almost everything without any lasting benefit, but I can honestly and truthfully state that Pyramid Pile Cure has entirely cured me, as I have had no return of that terrible itching which used to keep me awake by the hour, night after night. If the old trouble should ever return I will know just what to do, but I guess it won't, for it is now six or seven months since I first used this wonderful remedy."

We vouch for the authenticity of this testimonial, and as Mr. Milbury found relief and a cure, so you may also. Do not delay, but buy a box and try it to-night, and do not allow any dealer to sell you "something just as good." You will do well to write Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., for their little book on the causes and cure of piles, which is sept free for the asking.

STADIUM AT FAIR TO BE CENTER OF INTEREST FOR ATHLETES.

THE STADIUM AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

The ground plan shows the concrete grand stand, which will seat 2,000 persons; the circular and straightaway running tracks and the Physical Culture building. The Exposition Company will build extra grand stands and bleachers to increase the seating capacity to 27,000. All the athletic contests will be held in the Stadium.

built.
The grandstand will have a temporar;

field.

The most important feature of the athletic featival will be the famous Olympic games, which will last a week. The management intends to make the Olympiad of 1994 the greatest ever held. The first of the modern Olympiads—which are reproductions of the famous games of ancient Greece—was held in Athens in 1898, when an American won the discus-throwing championship. The second was held at the Paris Exposition, where Americans won nine-tenths of the prizes.

Packers' Association Preparing to Show Operation of Immense Industry and Northern Scenery.

One of the earliest exhibits to be installed in the Forestry, Fish and Game building is that of the Alaska Packers Association, which will show when completed not only the salmon-packing in-dustry, but the scenes amid which it is carried on. In the rear of the exhibit will be a panorama of Elk Falls, Alaska, where several plants of the company are located.

The painted panorama will be carried

The painted panorama will be carried into the foreground, and a fall of real water, ten feet high and twelve feet wide will flow over a cliff, pass the canneries and disappear into the painted water of the background.

Every feature of the salmon-packing industry will be shown by a working model cannery, where automatic machines will demonstrate the cutting, canning, weighing and sterilizing of the product on one floor, while the automatic can-making machines will be shown above. requiring annual reports from such concerns, awaiting the outcome of the test case carried to the Supreme Court over a year ago. Last week the Supreme Court declared that the law is valid and many of these corporations, since the decision was announced, have met the requirements of the statutes. It is likely, however, that several hundred will lose their charters for noncompliance with the provisions of the act.

Over 3,000 corporations of the State, many of which are known to be engaged in active business pursuits, have failed to comply with the law. A corporation in default has one year in which to be restored to standing, but when that year expires, as is the case with the 1.200 corporations in question, the cancellation is final.

product on one floor, while the automatic can-making machines will be shown above.

The Alaska Packers' Association operates fifty-five canneries and packs from one-third to one-half of the saimon caught in Alaskan waters. Fifty vessels and 5,000 men are employed in catching and packing the fish, and it is not uncommon to see 100,000 fish on a cannery floor at one time. By nightfall the fish would repose in the cans.

From the time the fish is placed in the cleaning machine until it reaches the consumer, it is handled by machinery entirely. One machine cleans the fish and passes it on to the cutter, which turns it over to the machine which forces it into the cans by an arrangement of pistons. The cans then have tops fitted, after each can has passed the weighing machine, when they are soldered and heated at the temperature of boiling water. The venus in the top of the can are then opened and the steam allowed to escape, after which the vent is sealed and the cans heated to 22 degrees higher than boiling water in steam sterilizers.

The product to be exhibited at the Fair is all of the red variety, and demonstrators will be provided to show the various ways in which salmon can be prepared. Receipt books on salmon cookery are in preparation and will be distributed. Under Government supervision the company conducts three hatcheries at its own expense, and it has been estimated that for every fish taken from the water two are put back. This insures the salmon industry against any lack of material for canning purposes and so plentiful are the fish that more than 20,000 a day are often allowed to escape from the nets when the supply is greater than the canneries can handle.
